

HE'S A NOTED NEW YORKER.

Henry Clews is Trying Politics in Place of Finance and Literature.

Mr. Henry Clews, after a long and varied career in finance and literature, has dropped into politics and bids fair to become a prominent figure in New York city, at any rate. In fact, he has been a man of note ever since the war, and in the panic of 1873 his failure probably caused more general regret than that of any other victim. He soon came up again, however, and his book on the men of Wall street, giving details of his experience there for twenty-eight years, tells how such things are done, and in a very attractive style. He was born in Staffordshire, England, and was carefully educated with a view to his becoming a minister in the Established church. At fifteen he was far advanced in his studies and was allowed to take a trip to the United States.

HENRY CLEWS.

Once in New York he abandoned all thoughts of service in the church, and as soon as possible obtained a clerkship in the old banking house of Wilson G. Hunt & Co., and that has been his line of work ever since. In 1888 he organized the banking firm of Stout, Clews & Mason; later it became Livermore, Clews & Co., and then Henry Clews & Co., as it has been ever since.

He has probably been interviewed oftener than any other New Yorker, except possibly Chauncey Depew, and this because he is a thinker on many subjects, especially finance and politics. His present wife, whom he married in 1874, was Lucy Madison Worthington, sister of the noted beauty who became Mrs. Secretary Belknap, and equally noted for beauty. She was a southern lady, and is among the most popular and successful of society leaders. With her aid Mr. Clews has added a pleasant social life to his political and financial experience, but society is the one subject on which he never submits to an interview.

Personally Mr. Clews is a pleasant, businesslike man, with just hair enough around the base of his thick tank to save him from total baldness. He has more than once been solicited to become a candidate for mayor or other local office, but the chances for a Republican in New York city have not struck him as particularly brilliant. It is a singular fact that though he entered business immediately after the panic of 1857-8, and has always enforced the policy of "buying in" in panic times and avoiding investments in "kiting times," he has twice been caught by failing to follow his own advice.

He did an immense work in negotiating bonds for the government during the war, and gained on the rise, but was caught and crushed in the panic of 1878. He negotiated bonds for the reconstruction governments in the southern states and suffered again. He pleasantly admits in his "Twenty-eight Years in Wall Street" that he has had several narrow escapes from other collapses, but is still an ardent believer that Wall street methods are moral and beneficial in the highest degree.

Chicago's Terra Cotta Banner.

All Chicago is on the qui vive decorating for the dedication day of the World's fair, and terra cotta is her municipal color. That is, the city colors—the municipal flag, so to speak—are to be rich terra cotta and white, and this is the result of a $100 prize offered by The Tribune for the best design. The committee appointed to decide awarded the prize to Mr. Alfred Jensen Roedwald, a native of Copenhagen, Denmark, forty-one years old and but two years a citizen of Chicago.

The design is a field of terra cotta, divided into three parts by a band of white. The three parts indicate the three great divisions of the city made by the river—north, south and west. In making the award the committee says the background of that shade of red known as terra cotta and white stand well together, and can be easily adapted to banner or shield as well as flag. Already the principal streets show the city's new colors in most dazzling designs, and Wabash avenue from Thirty-third to Thirty-fourth streets—an entire block—is in a blaze of terra cotta and white, on which, as a background, the national flag will look its most glorious. In the big windows of dry goods stores the municipal colors appear in marvelous designs, made up of bows, gloves, dress goods and the like, while the confectioners' windows are equally variegated. Several designs for buttons in the municipal colors are already in the hands of manufacturers, and each citizen is expected to wear a little ribbon bow of the same in his buttonhole.

What is the Electropoise? and What Will it Do?

The Electropoise has been in use for four years, and is well known in some sections of the United States, but there are a great many sufferers that have never heard the name. Those that have heard of it and seen something of its wonderful power are curious to know in an instrument so small and so simple can accomplish cures so great. Now, while the Electropoise is very wonderful, it is not at all mysterious. Its operation falls in with what we know of science, and any one at all familiar with the simplest facts of Biology and Physics can understand.

HOW IT OPERATES.—The way in which the Electropoise accomplishes its cures is very simple and natural. It consists of a polarizer, which is connected by a wire with a small plate and garter. This polarizer is immersed in cold water, or put on ice. The wire at the other end of the cord is attached to the warm body of the patient, generally at the ankle. From the inherent nature of this polarizer it becomes negatively charged. By the well-known laws of induction, the plate, and with it the body of the patient, becomes positively charged. The body thereby becomes a centre of attraction for negative bodies. Oxygen is the most negative form of matter in nature. Hence the body, bathed in the atmosphere, drinks in the life-giving oxygen at every pore. Every process of life is thereby quickened. The temperature rises, the pulse throbs with a fuller beat, the skin tingles with new life; every organ acts with renewed vigor, and the entire poisonous products of the body are thrown off with ease.

That quickened change of matter which oxygen produces throughout the system is accompanied by a largely increased supply of blood. Force, organs half dead and stagnant are born again, and begin to perform their wonted functions. The heart, the lungs, the liver, the organs of the external senses, the organs of reproduction—all these throw off their deranged and weakened, and create the disorder. Intellect is oftentimes re-entrained. Where disease has not already made too great ravages, restored to perfect health is inevitable. The Electropoise is generally used at night while the patient is asleep, but may be applied, of course, at any time, and to several parts during the twenty-four hours. It will last a life-time, never wears out nor loses its strength, never needs mending nor recharging.

One in each family will render that family largely independent of doctors and druggists, and thus will save every year many times its small cost.

NOT AN ELECTRICAL APPLIANCE.—The Electropoise is not in any way akin to the numerous electrical appliances, such as belts, insoles, corsets, etc., patented upon the public. It has no method of generating a current, nor means of conducting one. It acts upon well-known biological principles, and is readily endorsed by many of the best physicians in this and other countries, and is daily used by them in their practice. It is pronounced by them the greatest discovery in the history of medicine, in that it does away with the use of medicines.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING.—Accompanying each instrument is a book of instructions fully explaining its uses. Its method of cure is so simple and free from danger, that the uninitiated and even children can use it with perfect ease and success.

Editorial in Boston Christian Register and Advertiser of Boston, September 3, 1891.

"A method of treatment of disease without the use of any medicines or drugs, which has been lately extended from over all parts of the United States during the past three years with very gratifying results. We are slow to commend a new discovery of any kind for the reason that so many of them prove to be worthless. But we can commend the Electropoise as a safe and effective health restorer. We do not pretend to explain the philosophy of its workings, but, having realized its beneficial effects, we can speak of its results. About one year ago we recommended it to Bro. I. D. Ware, of Philadelphia, for his son, who was a great sufferer from Sciatica. He had sought relief in various ways and found none. He was almost helpless, and rapidly declining. The use of the Electropoise restored him to perfect health, and a year ago he was able to perform his usual duties. We have seen testimonials of most remarkable cures. This notice of the Electropoise is with our solicitation and entirely gratuitous. We do it for the good of the afflicted. We have no personal interest in it, and are not paid for what we say in its favor."

The following editorial in Central Methodist, Galesburg, Ky., was written by Zephaniah Mead, D. D., editor:

"Thousands of tea thousand men, mainly professional men, lawyers, doctors, editors, preachers, and all other classes, including the writer, are very much mistaken. The Electropoise effects cures and gives relief where all other known remedies have failed. Especially is it efficacious in the case of delicate women and feeble children. I have used one for the past two years, and find it invaluable as a curative agent."
